VIENNA RECORD

A bi-monthly newsletter of the Town of Vienna, Maine

VOLUME XVI, NO. 1

FEBRUARY/MARCH 2012

FROM THE VIENNA HEALTH OFFICER: DISEASE SCREENING: HOW MUCH, FOR WHAT, & WHICH PEOPLE?

In my last newsletter piece on home water testing for contaminants, I promised to do another on other home health risks. I shall do that in April, but this time I want to respond to a recruitment brochure encouraging me to be screened for $75+ for 5 diseases, by a traveling ultrasound service in a nearby town office. It made me realize the immediacy of issues raised by such programs, their hidden risks, potential benefits, and personal and financial costs. I presume most of you, at least those over 40, receive these solicitations as regularly as I do

Screening for asymptomatic, serious disease, and curing it before it makes one sick, makes good theoretical sense. But while many screening tests are proposed, very few are supported by populations studies showing significant benefit enough to warrant their risks and costs. There are some that clearly do; we are all familiar with Pap smear screening for cervical cancer. As a result of its widespread implementation, cervical cancer rates are 1/5 of those 40-50 years ago.

MINUTES FROM THE TOWN SELECTMEN MEETINGS

November 22, 2011

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Brian Church

1) Worked on some property cards.

2) Dodi reported that she met with Lance Lemieux from the Loss Control Dept. of Maine Municipal (Risk Management/Workers Comp.) on Monday, November 21. He did an inspection of the Town House and the Fire Station/Community Building. Everything was satisfactory; he will send a follow up report.

3) Read and accepted selectmen minutes from November 1, 8 and 15.

4) Reviewed and dispersed mail.

December 6, 2011

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Brian Church, Marti Gross, Linwood Meader, Jr., Barry Emery

1) Reviewed and signed Warrant #23.

2) Reviewed and distributed mail.

3) Linwood reports that he had to do some road repair on the Stream Road.

4) Bob Leso, a forester from Chester-ville, came in to get some information for a tree growth plan he is working on.

5) Filled out the Maine Municipal Association Workmen's Comp insurance forms for 2012.

6) Reviewed some abatement letters from assessor John Sexton. Abatements were done on three properties.

VIENNA RECORD

MINUTES FROM SELECTMEN'S MEETINGS (FROM FRONT PAGE)

December 13, 2011

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Brian Church, Peg Lang

1. Peg Lang came in to inform that someone is coming to measure the Town House windows which will be fitted with inside storm windows. The target date for building these windows is December 13th in Farmington. This is a United Way project. The windows will be installed sometime in January.

2. The selectmen worked on some tax abatements.

3. Reviewed and dispersed mail.

December 20, 2011

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Marti Gross, Linwood

1. Reviewed and signed Warrant #24.

2. Had long discussion on the fuel tank leak at the Town House.

Downeast Energy was called yesterday morning because there was no heat. The service man came out, discovered that there was a hole in the tank and the fuel had all leaked out (estimate - 100 to 130 gallons) on the ground. DEP was called. Chris worked with them today to get it cleaned up. Meader's Construction did the work. Two loads of contaminated soil were taken to Scarborough. Downeast came back today and installed a temporary tank in front of the building. We think we should leave the temporary tank where it is, until a decision is made about a new heating system. Dodi will apprise the Town House Committee of the situation.

3. Mail was reviewed and dispersed.

December 27, 2011

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Brian Church, Marti Gross

1. Opened and distributed the mail.

2. Follow-up discussion on the oil leak at the Town House. Selectmen will meet with the Town House Committee on Monday, January 16th to discuss the situation and plan a course of action in regard to the temporary fuel tank.

January 3, 2012

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Brian Church, Linwood Meader, Marti Gross

1. Reviewed and signed Warrant #25 for 2011 and Warrant #1 for 2012.

2. The need to purchase a fire-proof safe and a fire-proof filing cabinet was discussed.

3. Had a general discussion of the upcoming 2011 Town Report and the 2012 budget for March Town Meeting.

January 10, 2012

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Laura Reville

1. Reviewed and dispersed mail.

2. Laura Reville picked up the 2010 and 2011 Tax Transfers in order to update the E911 address lists.

3. Had a general discussion of the upcoming 2011 Town Report and the 2012 budget for March Town Meeting.

January 10, 2012

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith,

Laura Reville

1. Reviewed and dispersed mail.

2. Laura Reville picked up the 2010 and 2011 Tax Transfers in order to update the E911 address lists.

3. Began work on the annual Town Report and Town Meeting Warrant.

January 17th meeting was cancelled due to icy road conditions

January 24, 2012

Present: Dodi Thompson, Chris Smith, Brian Church, Linwood Meader, Laura Reville, Marti Gross, Connie Smith

1. Dodi and Chris reported that they attended the January 16th meeting of the Town House Committee to discuss the furnace situation. The committee voted to NOT buy a new furnace at this time, but to buy a new oil tank to replace the old tank that sprung a leak. The new tank was installed today. It will be paid for by the Dorothy Waugh Trust Account.

2. On the day of the fuel leak, Chris submitted an application to the Maine Groundwater Oil Clean-up Fund to help pay for the clean-up of the oil that leaked from the old tank. The town has received the paperwork saying that the application was accepted with a $500 deductible.

3. Laura Reville came in to do some research regarding updating E-911 addresses.

4. Selectmen worked on the budget for Town Meeting.

FROM THE PLANNING BOARD

MINUTES OF THE REGULAR MEETING OF THE VIENNA PLANNING BOARD HELD DECEMBER 28, 2011

The meeting convened at the Town House at 7:00 PM. Regular members present were Alan Williams, Ed Lawless, Waine Whittier and Creston Gaither.

On December 14 Creston and Alan and Ed and Nanou met at Creston's house to consider the l'Ansons' proposal to construct an 8' x 8' entryway over their existing porch, on their Klir Beck Road property (depicted on the Vienna tax maps as map 11 lot 48-F). (See permit issued Dec. 14).

Minutes of the October 26 meeting were read and accepted.

On November 23 Ed and Waine met informally but no others appeared and no formal business was conducted.

At 7:10 Health Officer Dan Onion appeared to ask whether the Notification of Construction Ordinance (NoCO) requires testing for lead paint in older buildings -- he had attended a related conference earlier in the month. He said that lead is mainly a threat to children under age 3 -- cases of elevated levels are appearing in Maine, mainly where older housing is involved. He said that lead detection is not expensive. He also asked about asbestos. The Board advised him that the current NoCO does not require lead or asbestos testing. Dan said we need some kind of education campaign. Waine suggested that a separate ordinance would be the best approach, possibly one requiring applicants to confirm that they've read some informational literature. Dan will continue to investigate and will talk with pertinent personnel from nearby towns.

Several recent permits were processed.

The Board considered the Van Woerts' request to essentially renew the permits they were issued on Nov. 1 2007 for their Whittier Pond parcel; (tax map 11 lot 67). No changes are proposed for the project. It was agreed that they do not need a new NoC permit as the footprint previously permitted is now well-established, satisfying the NoCO requirement that construction begin within a year of the date of a permit issued. Creston was authorized to issue a permit by letter which will essentially renew the 2007 SZO permit.

Creston was authorized to order the latest edition of the land use and planning law pamphlets.

The meeting adjourned at 7:30 PM.

Creston Gaither, Secretary

More recently, screening for colon cancer by colonoscopy has gained acceptance because studies show some benefit, though only in the range of 1/1000 people in whom it's done regularly. And, unlike Pap smears, there are bowel perforation and bleeding risks in all those 1000 ("number needed to test"). So the decision to screen that many, while helping only one, is more problematic, without even considering the financial costs. Another recent hot screening proposal, annual CT x-ray scanning of the chest for lung cancer in smokers, is being pushed despite much more unfavorable "numbers needed to test", unknown long term radiation risks, unnecessary chest surgeries for the many who prove to have "false positives" (a change only proven benign after surgery), and no overall benefit in survival for the screened people. Right now, several competing hospital systems in Maine have bought multi-million dollar CT machines to do this, and now have to recruit lots of patients to pay for them. But similar amounts spent on supporting people stopping smoking would be much more efficacious.

Which brings me back to those screening clinics. Some are clearly good and work. The hypertension/cholesterol screening done in Franklin Co., led by Dr. Burgess Record over the past 30+ years, has reached most of that county's population and effected an almost 50% decline in cardiovascular disease and deaths there, compared to adjacent Somerset and Oxford counties. Such screening for risk factors and altering them with medications and dietary changes (like helping people stop smoking, too) has a much bigger impact than trying to detect a disease after it appears and eradicating it.

It is the latter, less efficient strategy, which the ultrasound clinics follow when they offer to screen for carotid, leg, and aortic artery disease, osteoporosis, and others. Here there are huge issues with how many must be screened to find one who benefits, huge hidden costs and bother in investigating whether patients with positive tests have significant disease, false reassurance if tests are negative but falsely so, and little or no evidence that eventually offered treatments do any good (see:<http://www.sciencebasedmedicine.org/index.php/ultrasound-screening-misleading-the-public/>).

All these issues become minor if a person has symptoms, in which case they should be seeing their primary care clinician to pursue them. These clinics are dangerous substitutes for people worried about symptoms.

So the old adage of "if it ain't broke, don't fix it" proves true for many, many population screening proposals, with some notable exceptions like cervical cancer, hypertension, mammography over age 50 (though the British don't think its worth it), maybe osteoporosis if you only use prescription medications with their risks for true osteoporosis not osteopenia, maybe prostate PSAs between age 50-70 if you are willing to accept draconian treatments if it's found, and on and on.

Be wary also of organizational and professional conflicts of interest, and cautious about which disease screening is worth it for you. Talk about it with your primary care clinician. Read what the US Preventive Services Task Force has to say and how it classifies (A through D, like school grades) each proposed screening procedure at www.ahcpr.gov/clinic/uspstfix.htm.

I'm sorry it's so complicated, but it is important for you to know that. Many people, including physicians, misunderstand screening as black and white: all testing is good, positive tests warrant treatment, and all treatment cures all. None of those things, of course, is true.
